WE NOMINATE

The 124 highly qualified teacher-students who in the week ahead will complete six-week programs of study under the sponsorship of The National Science Foundation's far-flung Summer Institute Program. Ever since late June, when most of this community's educational institutions entered upon their summer hiatus, these men and women — drawn from 31 states as well as from seven foreign nations as widely separated as Sweden and Pakistan—have been enrolled in concurrent, University-based Institutes in Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics. Each was carefully screened for this "vacation assignment", with superior initiative and ability constituting the criteria for selection.

At this point in the nation's development, with educators often riding off in all directions at once, the Princeton Institutes, the first of which was held in the summer of 1958, offer refreshing documentation of the calibre of a cross-section of American teachers. Inasmuch as the basic stipend offered by the National Science Foundation is only $75.00 a week, slightly above the level commanded by college juniors in summer training programs, the magnet here is the opportunity to enhance one's qualifications as a teacher by gaining new insights into subject-matter and techniques. And, from the institute directors, come reports of enthusiastic response to heavy demands on the "students' time and energy.

Where the Physics Institute is designed exclusively for secondary school teachers, both the Chemistry and Mathematics programs bring together school representatives and teachers engaged in college-level teacher training. However, regardless of division by category, one observer notes that the most exhilarating aspect of all three undertakings has been the free and informal exchange of points of views and problems on the part of school, college and university teachers. It is the deep hope in assembling the Institute participants, 25 of whom brought their families to Princeton for the six week sessions, that they will become the equivalent of educational "seed-corn" in their home institutions and localities by strengthening in-service or pre-service training for secondary school teachers. The foreign visitors, whose expenses are underwritten by governmental grants, constitute the vanguard of a growing number of teachers from overseas who will be given every chance in future summers to evaluate American educational methods and to transplant whatever might be of value to their parent educational systems.

Among those participating in next Thursday evenings' "graduation" will be five residents of the Princeton Area. Edward B. Bamman Jr., of the Hun School, and Gerald J. Groninger, of Princeton High School, have been "majoring" in Physics together with Curtiss S. Hitchcock, of the Lawrenceville School. G. Gerald Donaldson Jr., also of Hun, has been enrolled in Chemistry, while Mrs. Ruth Law, of the Township's Valley Road School, has been wrestling with the changing approach to algebra and geometry and the introduction of probability into the secondary school curriculum. To the last-named belongs the distinction of being the lone junior high teacher "accredited" by any one of the Institutes.

For their deep concern for raising ever higher the standards of their demanding profession; for seeking to broaden their own horizons, particularly at a time when this country desperately needs teachers of vision; these are our nominees for

JANUARY IN JULY

As "Cold Spell" lingers. In other times of year, a month that was colder than all expectations would cause considerable grumbling on the part of the citizenry, but not so July. It was the seventh month of the year — normally known as the time of the "dog days" because of the position of Sirius, the Dog Star, in the heavens and generally associated with sultry, humid weather.

The star was there, all right, and so were thousands of others, but they hung almost as crisp and clear in the cool night air as if frost were only a fortnight away. If it was July, there was only the calendar to prove it.

To support the feeling that this was all distinctly unusual, the Weather Bureau reported a cumulative temperature deficit for July of close to 60 degrees. Rarely has the thermometer topped the mid-80's, sharp in contrast to other years when both temperature and humidity had splashed through a soggier race at public expense to see which could reach 90 faster.

Firm Moves to Princeton

The Mettler Instrument Corporation of Hightstown has moved its sales force into a new branch office in Princeton Township.

The firm has leased from Princeton Research Lands, Inc., the former "Lahiere Farm" on the corner of Mt. Lucas and Poor Farm roads, including all its outbuildings and five acres of land. Princeton Research owns the 122 acres that comprise the property. This is the first business move into the Township's new research zone.

Mettler will keep its assembly plant in Hightstown, and will move only about ten persons to the Mt. Lucas Road location, according to David Jones of the sales staff. The firm's Swiss branch manufactures precision balances which are assembled in Hightstown and sold to many research organizations in the Princeton area.

Meanwhile, in common with the rest of the U.S., Princetonians had kept a television eye on the conventions, wondered with an occasional uneasy feeling how much further the international situation could deteriorate, and came back to the more pleasant pastime of planning summer vacations. Around and about them, these were the stories that were making summer-time news:

CONSOLIDATION AGAIN

Candidate Asks Questions. The subject of consolidation can always raise the heat and humidity in Princeton no matter how mild the summer's political weather may be. Maurice F. Healy, Jr., 1108 Princeton — Kingston Road, Republican candidate for Township Committee, has addressed a letter on the subject to Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman, who will share the Republican ticket with him in November.

Mr. Healy points out in his letter that consolidation is a matter of "intense and continuing interest to many citizens" in the Princeton community. He reminds Mayor Fairman of his 1960 inauguration address in which he said that Township Committee was "100 percent" in favor of launching a study of consolidation during 1960, hopefully with Borough cooperation, and of the $3500 appropriated for the purpose in the Township 1960 budget.

He inquires about the present status of action taken by the Borough "as well as further action contemplated by Township Committee to resolve this fundamental question affecting the future growth and development of the Princeton community."

At Mr. Healy's request, the letter will be read at Monday night's Township Committee meeting.

Telephone Company Adds Numbers. WALNUT 1, which has been serving as the prefix for telephone numbers above 6000, will henceforth serve numbers from 2000 to 2999 as well, according to a new policy established by the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company.

The additional 1,000 new numbers reflect the growth of the Princeton community in the two and one-half years since the installation of dial phones. Most of the new WA 1-2000 numbers will go to new business enterprises, many of which require blocks of ten or 15 numbers. It is expected by company officials that the new Lockhead complex, for example, will need at least 15 telephone numbers.

PEACE MARCH PLANNED

To Aid Disarmament. A peace caravan, which will leave Trenton Tuesday and arrive at the United Nations in New York next Saturday, has been jointly planned by the New Jersey Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy and the New Jersey Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. August 6, the date of arrival in New York, is Hiroshima Day.

The caravan will travel by car between towns and walk through several major stops on the way. It will arrive in Princeton at 10 on Wednesday, August 3. Those participating will walk from the home of the late Albert Einstein on Mercer Street, down Nassau Street to Cedar Lane. The group will then drive in New Brunswick.

The purpose of the peace caravan is to demonstrate support for universal nuclear disarmament. All interested are invited to participate.

ROUND UP

Princetonians are checking pennies that are reportedly worth $8 apiece these days. . . seems the U.S. mints in Philadelphia and Denver used what the printer calls a "wrong font" in coining several million new pennies, and the "19" is larger than the "20" . . . the government is reportedly recalling the pennies as quickly as possible, making them all the rarer, and thus boosting the price collectors will pay. . . one of them said that it is the first time in this century that a wheeling and dealing for any coin has been made because of error.

The thermometer dipped as low as 53 twice last week, helping to drop the average minimum temperature for the month to 59—four degrees below normal. . . rainfall totalled no more than .24 inches. . . a strike in the building trades has halted some construction in the Princeton area and remains unsettled as it enters its fourth week.

Police Chief Raymond Mondone has warned that action will be taken against further dumping of trash on a vacant lot on the south side of Hamilton Avenue between Harrison and Stanley. . . violation of the law against such action can bring sentences as high as 90-days in jail. . . Salvatore La Placa is the owner of the lot Township residents who have been beset by sewer problems for many months found unanticipated humor in "Enemy of the People," current University Players' production in Murray Theatre. . . the dialogue produces considerable topical comment on water pollution, people who obstruct the building of sewers, others who maintain that water is pure despite tests which prove it polluted, and taxpayers who are agast at the high cost of sewers.

BOY SAVED FROM OCEAN

Donaldson Rescue Fraker. A 12-year old Princeton boy owes his life today to his closest friend, who kept him from drowning in the ocean off Nantucket Island until rescuers arrived.

Ford Fraker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison S. Fraker of 150 Cleveland Lane, was tossed out of a small sailboat in choppy water Friday afternoon. Although a good swimmer, he swallowed a good deal of water because of the roughness and developed stomach cramps.

Coleman Donaldson Jr., 12, one of his two companions in the boat, went overboard and kept Ford above water until help arrived from land. The boat was within a quarter-mile of the shore, and easily visible to those on the beach.

Young Donaldson, a classmate of the Fraker boy at Princeton Country Day School, lives at 162 Library Place and was a house guest of the Frakers. A third boy, William Giese of Nantucket, swam toward shore to seek help and was also picked up by rescuers.

Young Fraker spent 48 hours in a hospital on the Massachusetts Island following his experience, and is now being kept under observation at his parents' summer home. He has, however, recovered from all ill effects of his submersion.

ESTATE DIVISION APPROVED

To Permit Barn Restoration. The first obstacle to the restoration of the massive brick barn on the old Pyne estate off Mercer Road was overcome at Monday night's meeting of the Township Zoning Board. The Board granted the variances necessary to place the barn on a single plot of land.

If the Township Planning Board approves the subdivision and the principals involved accept the Zoning Board's conditions, the double-winged barn will be returned to good condition and made into living quarters. Patrick J. Kelleher, director of the Princeton University museum, and his wife, the former Marion Mackie of Princeton, hope to make the restoration.

At present, the barn lies on a 3.5 acre lot owned by Charles Weigel and fronting on both Mercer Road and Parkside Drive. The lot, which is the nucleus of the old estate, also includes the main house, a cottage, a milkhouse, a garage and a pump house for the whole area.

To dissect the lot so as to place the barn, built by the Mattheve Construction Company about 1900, on a single piece of land has required a considerable amount of work. Problems include the size of the barn itself and the proximity of adjacent buildings, both of which conflict with Township zoning ordinances.

Garage Too Close. Originally, the Weigels and the Kellehers proposed to put the property line between the barn and garage, which are abutting. When this was rejected by the Board, they offered to tear down a portion of the garage, putting 11½ feet between the two buildings. As finally specified by the Board, there will have to be at least 30 feet between the garage and the barn, which will mean virtually demolishing the garage.

MUSIC CHARMS THEM ALL: Old and young alike fell under the spell of the music Friday evening at the second summer concert by the Princeton Community Band in front of Nassau Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Ira S. Warren of 4 Hamilton Avenue (top) listened and watched from the vantage point of their chairs, while Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quock of Abington, Pa. (center), (friends of George M. Jones, clarinet soloist), divided with one seated and the other supine. Probably the youngest member of the audience was Lower Alexander Street, who four-month old David Read of lay comfortably in front of his mother, Mrs. Amy Read.

At the same time, the Board allowed a variance on the requirement of 15 feet from property line to building in the case of the milk house, currently attached to the barn by a breezeway which will be removed. Reeves Hlekes, representing the group before the Planning Board, explained that the milk house was a very solidly built structure, complete with a tiled interior.

In addition to the variance on the 15-foot limitation, the Board also made exceptions to the requirements on side-yard height and floor-area lot-size ratios. The principals had not decided at mid-week whether they would accept the Board's condition with regard to the garage.

Other action by the Zoning Board included the refusal to variances to permit Nassau Interiors to hold a sale in the Old Mill on the Princeton-Kingston Road and to allow the Shopping Center to accept signs to the flood light poles in the parking lot. It granted a variance to Houghton Realty to use the lot at 25 Park Road for a dwelling, necessary because the lot does not meet the minimum acreage requirement for the area.

FORMER DEAN APPOINTED

Left Vanderbilt in Dispute. Princeton Theological Seminary has appointed to a guest professorship the former dean of the Vanderbilt Divinity School, Dean J. Robert Nelson, resigned his position at Vanderbilt in protest against the expulsion of a Negro student who was accused of participating in the campaign against segregated lunch counters in Nashville, Tenn.

Eleven other members of the Divinity School's faculty resigned with Dr. Nelson in protest, but only that of the Dean was accepted by the University without allowing withdrawal of the resignation. He and the faculty members had objected to the Negro student's expulsion and attempted to have him readmitted.

Dr. Nelson will teach courses in ecumenics during the 1960-61 academic year while Prof. Edward J. Jurji is on sabbatical leave in Madras, India. His resignation as Dean at Vanderbilt is effective August 31, but he has already been relieved of his duties there.

A graduate of DePaul University and Yale Divinity School, Dr. Nelson received his Doctor of Theology degree from the University of Zurich, Switzerland. He is a former secretary of the Faith and Order Commission of the World Council of Churches. His publications include "The Realm of Redemption," and "One Lord, One Church."

I sure hope August, keeps in mind That ole July Was cool and kind. —MURPHY D. THYME

Turnabout is supposed to be fair play but no one is hoping that August will turn on an unsuspecting public and unleash all the hot, humid weather that July failed to produce.

It might be a bit stickier than usual for the next couple of days, the Men admitted, but even then, July could take credit for a lot of the best summer weather Princeton has known in years. Generally fair through Saturday, he forecast, with just a chance of showers before the weekend is over.

CONTRACT AWARDED

For Design of New School. Fulmer and Bowers has been awarded the contract to design Princeton Township's new elementary school. The Township Board of Education voted unanimously last Thursday to give the Princeton firm the contract, basing its decision on "an interest in effective educational and esthetic design, economical use of materials, accurate estimation of costs and need for careful supervision while construction is in progress."

The Board also said that, because the school will be built in Community Gardens, its design must be co-ordinated with the plans of the Township for development of that tract, and that this factor entered into the choice of an architectural firm. Thirteen other firms were considered.

The new school will be completed by September, 1962, and it will serve children from kindergarten through grade six who live in the central section of the Township. It is expected that by the time the new school is completed, Valley Road will be ready to be used as a junior high, for seventh and eighth grades only. Detailed plans and cost estimates for the new school will be prepared between now and January, when they will be presented to the Township in a public hearing.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?

For Township Committee. When Township Committee meets Monday night its members will take up an agenda originally prepared for July 18, but put aside when that meeting was cancelled for lack of a quorum.

Under new business, Committee will act on the variance recommended by the Zoning Board for the new Princeton Electronics Company. Committee will also introduce ordinances allowing a cemetery for Trinity Church at All Saints' Parish; authorizing the engagement of consultants for a sewer master-plan financing and the preparation of "light industry" regulations; and constructing parts of Pretty Brook Road. They will also introduce an ordinance to accept and complete White Pine Lane using $7,912 from the bond company on a defaulted $31,000 bond. The difference will be met through assessment.

Six residents of Mountain Avenue near Elm Road, have petitioned Township Committee for a sewer extension, and the Board of Health has approved. Committee will consider the petition on Monday night.

In addition, Committee will consider a resolution releasing the Autumn Hill bondsmen from pay for its obligations in return for which the company will pay the Township $41,400 and provide drainage for the street.

News Of The THEATRES

"ENEMY OF THE PEOPLE"
Players' New Offering, Hendrik Ibsen's and Arthur Miller's story of a man in revolt against the idea that the majority is always right opened Monday at Murray Theatre as the fifth University Players' production of the 1960 summer season. It will run through Saturday night.
With this drama, the Players' young Equity cast seems to have obtained the cohesion and the maturity of approach that characterizes a really good theatrical company. They are offering to Princeton theatre-goers this week a truly exciting experience in the theatre; and any residents who have entertained doubts about various rough spots in the Players' work this year will find them pleasantly resolved by the current production.

Arthur Miller has taken Ibsen's polemic "pamphlet" about an idealist and, without re-casting it in modern dress or modern times, has nevertheless made of it an immediate and urgent document for modern audiences, using colloquialisms such as "If you don't like it here, why don't you go back where you came from," which sound a strong chord in the modern ear.
He tells the story of Dr. Thomas Stockmann (Gerald Hiken) who discovers pollution in the newly-found mineral springs upon which a wonderful era of future prosperity for the town is to be based. He expects that everyone, especially his brother the Mayor (Chester Doherty), will hail him as a savior, but he learns instead that his brother denounces him and that the town's liberal publisher (Francis Duod) and editor (George Segal) declare him to be "an enemy of the people" for attempting to destroy the prosperity of the community. In the end he finds triumph as the most powerful man in the world: "The man who stands alone."

Casts Successful, Mr. Hiken, Mr. Doherty and Mr. Segal, the core members of the Players' summer cast, perform with the skill that Princeton audiences have come to expect from them this summer. Mr. Segal, as the liberal editor who is too cowardly to stand up to his own conviction, is just as convincing as he was last week portraying Shaw's weak-minded aristocrat, or two weeks ago playing Orestes. Mr. Doherty showed once again, as he did in "The Frodholm," that he can portray the self-righteous manipulator of men with consummate skill — (assuming that's the kind of specialty an actor wants to develop).

Mr. Hiken, who bears the leading role, has an incredibly long part, full of lengthy speeches, which he has learned and lived with and made completely his own. Some in Monday night's audience found his interpretation of the ebullient, idealistic doctor too frenetic and too embarrassingly close to the "madman" accusation which Ibsen and Miller make the doctor bear as the play moves from scene to scene, but this reviewer found him believable, if perhaps too young for the part.

Director Is Star. Other members of the cast carry out their assignments well. But the actual star of "An Enemy of the People" is the director, David Sawyer, who has drawn from these actors the sparks that are necessary to ignite Ibsen's and Miller's ideas.

He has achieved a production which has unity, force and movement and, what is perhaps even more important, the firm professional touch. His actors know their lines and do not skip words. They catch their cues on the split second, every time. They move about the stage when movement is necessary to give vitality to the scene, and they are still when movement is superfluous.

To stage, as Mr. Sawyer has done in the second act, a mob scene which has tension, excitement and profound, almost frightening impact. In the tight confines of Murray Theatre, using a combination of professional actors and high school students, it is to accomplish a feat of which any director might be very proud. This is the second of Mr. Sawyer's endeavors this summer. He will share the directorship of the Ionesco plays next week, and one hopes that his talents will again be in evidence.

In "An Enemy of the People" the audience is treated to a bare stage, without curtain, flats or even many props. There are tables and chairs, and the bare back wall of Murray Theatre and the lights and their cords and that is all. Bill Pierce, who "lived" the 1959 season, has done this play with the imaginative use of practically nothing and has brought it off better than if he used all the scenery in the world. The set is the bare bones of truth, as uncompromising in its starkness as Dr. Stockmann's own sturdy convictions.

In last week's review of "Major Barbara," it was erroneously stated that George Segal played the role of Andrew Undershaft. The role was played by Gerald Hiken.

ONE-ACTERS TO BE GIVEN
"An Evening With Ionesco." For the sixth offering of the summer season, The University Players will offer "An Evening With Ionesco" consisting of three one-act plays, "The Chairs" and "The Lesson," directed by Daniel Selnick and by David Sawyer, who was responsible for last — Continued on Page 6

The third offering will be the American premiere of "The Fourroom," Cy Sina will direct.
The Ionesco evening will begin next Monday at 8:30 p.m.
and will run through Saturday,
August 6, at Murray Theatre.

Ionesco, who was introduced to American audiences over two years ago, has been called "a supreme theatrical conjurer,"
"perfectly awful," "howlingly funny" and "something sired by Harpo Marx out of James Joyce."
Jean Anouilh has written that "masterpieces are rare and here, now, Ionesco has produced 'The Chairs.' It is absolutely droll, frightful and comic, poignant, yet always true."

STUDENTS IN REHEARSAL

Little Theatre at Work, the young members of "The Little Theatre," all of them high-school or early college age, have been following a rehearsal schedule that keeps them at work three hours a night, six nights a week in preparation for their three 1960 offerings. They will present them Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 11, 12 and 13 in the auditorium at Princeton Country Day School.

The plays are "Riders to the Sea," by John Synge, "Jile," by Eugene O'Neill and the Pyra-mus and Thisbe scene from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

In the Synge play, Betsey Parker will play the leading role of Maurya, an Irish mother who has lost the men of her family at sea. Miss Parker, who is 20, has attended Temple University and is now a student at Rider College. She has been active with the Theatre Intime and the University Players and hopes to attend The Neighborhood Theatre, a drama school in New York, following her graduation from Rider.

Other members of the cast include Cozy Spitzer, junior at Trenton High School, who was seen last year as St. Joan in "The Lark," and Barbi Allen, another junior, who appeared this year in "Begger Boy of Baghdad." In addition to her acting assignments with "The Little Theatre," Miss Allen is serving as assistant to the director, head of the costume crew and choreographer.

Peter Valk, who has worked in theatrical productions at Cornell, is also in the Synge work. He has one of the leading roles in O'Neill's "Jile," in which he plays a whaling captain torn between pride in his success as a skipper and love for his wife who wants to leave the sea. Linda Almgren, Princeton High junior, will portray the wife. Miss Almgren was also seen in "Begger Boy of Bagdad."

Other parts will be taken by David Groo, Princeton High School graduate, who appeared in various productions during his Princeton University's modern language department in 1958 and 1959; Robert Blumenthal, who played in many high school productions while at Princeton High William Valk, John Thorpe, Edith Bulden, Gordon Lutz, and Brock Tutman.

Farce Offers Change of Pace.

In the Pyramus and Thisbe scene, John Thorpe and Robert Blumenfeld will take the leading roles.
The farcical scene will also present Peter Valk, Joann Barenholtz, Edith Leverenz, Cynthia Westnate, David Groo, Virginia
Corvett, William Valk and Gordon Lutz.

The director, James Thorpe, served as stage manager and assistant director for Kent School productions of "The Zoo of Toy House" and "The Hairy Ape" and for his direction of a scene from "Riders to the Sea" this spring, he won Kent's Lovejoy Memorial Prize. He will enter Sweetheart this fall in the freshman class.

TWO WEEKS OF REPERTORY

Planned at Bucks Playhouse.
The Association of Producing Artists will become the first touring repertory company to play

TRIPLE STAR:

Rosemary Harris, who will star in all three plays being offered in repertory by the Association of Producing Artists at the Bucks County Playhouse, August 1 through 14.

at the Bucks County Playhouse when it opens there for a two-week stand on Monday. Offered in rotation will be "Man and Superman" by Shaw, "The Seagull" by Chekov and a musical version of "Anatol" by Schnitzer.
A group of 20 American performers and technicians, the Association of Producing Artists came to the Bucks Playhouse after three months in Bermuda.
The organization is directed by Ellis Rask and features Rosemary Harris and Richard Easton, all of whom have had Broadway experience.

Although the Bucks Playhouse normally presents only its own productions, producer Michael Ellis has made an exception for the repertory group. "The opportunity for the Playhouse to make history by being the first theatre to present these gifted people in their own country was too exciting to resist," he explained.

The group will open with Shaw's "Superman," the satir-cal story of man pursued by woman, on August 3. Chekov's "Seagull" will be presented for the first time on August 4, while the witty musical version of "Anatol" will follow on August 8.

Through this Saturday, Shelly Berman is starring in "The Mirror Under the Eagle," a story of the growth of the theatre in the United States, at the Playhouse.
Other featured players are Frances Reid and Phillip Bournet with Agnes de Mille serving as the director.

THE PLAYHOUSE

"Strangers When We Meet" (July 27-August 2) offers something for everyone; for the men there's Kim Novak and Barbara Rush; for the women Kim Kovacs, who scandal-lovers, an illicit love affair; and for those who are tired of sex-ridden tales of marital infidelity, Ernie Kovacs. Kovacs plays an eccentric author for whom a mountain top bachelor's house is being designed by Douglas.

When Kovacs isn't adding his moments of lightness, Douglas spends his time visiting with next-door-neighbor, Miss Novak, leaving his wife, Miss Rush, at home. There is also some trouble with another neighbor, Walter Mattau, who has ideas of his own. Somehow Hollywood manages to exorcise everybody from this mess.

Douglas, Miss Novak and Miss Rush bring their regular attractions to this otherwise sickly production, "Strangers When We Meet" is in CinemaScope and Color.

The Story of Ruth (August 3-6) finds the relatively short Book of Ruth from the Old Testament expanded by the addition of background and details into a long movie (132 minutes). Unlike many current semi-religious pictures, however, "The Story of Ruth" has been kept comparatively free of spectacular elements. Thus, those who appreciate only chariot races, milling masses and the like will find little for them in this quiet adaptation.

The role is sincerely portrayed by Elana Eden, who was "discovered" in Israel by Holly-

IT'S NEW To Us

LET'S TRAVEL

Up River and Down. On a warm summer day when the children are off swimming and the housework is the kind that can wait, get in the car and browse around the countryside with your market-basket.

The trip upriver will take you along the winding green lane that borders the Pennsylvania side of the Delaware. Go to New Hope and continue north until you come to Lumberville. Drive about 50 feet past the Elck Bass Hotel and you will find, on the river side of the road, the Henry's Chutney House Shop, a red roadside house (pre-Revolutionary) devoted to the kind of food we can only call "exotic delicacies", for words of anything more descriptive.

Here, in the low-beamed rooms with their great stone fireplaces, is a tiny shop where you can buy Mung beans, green gage plums from Russia and the saffron you'll need for East Indian Shira.

The proprietor of the shop, Mrs. Henry, is a good enough cook to offer for sale her own frozen Eastern dishes, like sweet and sour pork, bok choy, turkey and almonds. Polynesian beef, beef in oyster sauce, fried rice, and so on. She will even make up an Indian or a Polynesian dinner for you. If you wish, with a menu created from her own experience with Eastern cookery, or designed to suit your preference. In her dishes, she uses real Chinese vegetables which she either buys in New York or has shipped to her from Japan. For example, her snow peas come frozen in dry ice, all the way from Japan to be offered at 90 cents a half pound (price them in a New York market, and see what a bargain Mrs. Henry offers!)

The Mung beans are sold in the bulk, squeezed sausage-tight into a cellophane bag. They look like dark green buckshot. Mrs. Henry tells us you can eat them as is, with salt, for a cocktail snack, or use them as a bean-sprout substitute in Chinese cookery, which is what she often does. Or try them raw in a salad.

The essential sauces for Chinese cookery are ranged on shelves between two windows that display a collection of jewel-colored glass plates, salvaged from China at the outbreak of the war. The shelves hold the rare and expensive oyster sauce, red bean and black bean sauce and bean curds. Use Thai fish sauce instead of soy sauce, if you need a strong dash of salt, or Tamarind syrup if you want something different in your next rum cocktail. Try pickled water chestnuts, crisp and fresh in a light brine, for an unusual cocktail snack.

On her preserves shelves, Mrs. Henry displays green gage plums, whole strawberries packed in a very rich, sweet sauce, and blueberries, (of all things) all shipped from Russia. Mrs. Henry suggests the Italian wild strawberries, which are not sweet at all, for an unusual omelette.

And for something really different, if these aren't enough, try bourbon jelly—eight years old, bottled in bond!

PAST AND PRESENT
In Hopewell Department Store.

The Town Shop Gifts

87 Palmer Square

They're All Mine

In addition to the delicacies she imports from Hong Kong, Turkey, Japan and Russia, Mrs. Henry of the Lumberville Pa. Chutney House Shop presents for sale her own preparation and her own recipes. Try her rich brown apple vinegar with toxed salad or on fish. Experiment, as Mrs. Henry has done, with the curry that is prepared for her in New York, or with her own secret spicy mixture (laced firmly with cinnamon) or the Oriental dressing she calls "Madras" which is a mixture of capers, Major Grey's chutney, curry powder and only Mrs. Henry knows what else, (that one was a sandwich spread or a rich "mayonnaise".)

There's a fruit mustard made with bananas and dried apricots, among other ingredients, and canned chestnuts which she has prepared for cooks who like them for stuffing, and preserved ginger, cut into bite-sized pieces and put up in small jars.

On the way back from Lumberville, drive through Hopewell and stop at Kesler and Bellis, the department store on West Broad Street where you'll discover a delightful mixture of old and new. The store is owned by Miss Marie Bellis, the grand-daughter of the couple who founded it in 1890 as a millinery. The long, narrow main room is still much as it was many years ago, with its glass cabinets full of notions and merchandise.

The adjoining rooms, which Miss Bellis added on in 1902, reflect the current generation. A comprehensive little gift shop offers Georges Briand's striking white porcelain-opposed kitchenware with stylized decorations of strawberries and vegetables.

Buy a percolator that will brew 25 cups, or one that will brew eight. There are two tea-kettles, casseroles and saucepans in this cheerful modern pattern.

A butterfly shaped rattan tray presents one wing to each guest. A little "tribblecloth" of brown and rust covers the snack part of the tray, and a circle of rattan stands ready to accept a glass. The other wing has the same. Underneath there is an iron spike which you plunge into the ground between the two chairs. $4.50.

For fall, Kesler and Bellis has a splendid junior and teen outfit consisting of a herringbone poplin car coat, warmly quilted inside and fitted outside with a corduroy collar. Comes in olive or open blue, with a straight corduroy skirt to match. Jacket is $19.98, skirt is $6.96.

Clothes at Kesler and Bellis are moderately priced. Look at the extensive half-size rack, for example, and choose a pleasant brown and white vine print at $9.96 with short-sleeved raglan jacket over a sleeveless dress. Or a sage green dress with Y-shaped neckline, handkerchief cap.

wood but who can't receive the top billing she deserves because she is a newcomer, Peggy Wood is Naomi, Ruth's mother-in-law who elicits the well-known "Whether thou goest, I will go, thy people shall be my people and thy God my God," Tom Tryon the golden-haired Mahlon who first turns Ruth to Jehovah; Stuart Whitman, the Judean Boaz with whom Ruth finds love; and Vivica Lindfors, the Moah High priestess.

Perhaps the best indication of what to expect is that the director, Henry Kosier, was also responsible for "The Rose," "A Man Called Peter," and "Come to the Strahle." The CinemaScope and De Luxe-Color production was written by Norman Corwin and produced by Samuel G. Engel.

THE GARDEN

Sergeant Rutledge (July 29-30) is a courtroom drama of the "Anatomy of a Murder" variety set in the Old West and bringing up the problem of racial segregation as well as those normally associated with murder mysteries. The basic story of a post-Civil War Negro sergeant (Woody Strode) accused of raping and murdering a 16-year old girl and shooting her father was found in the Government archives. From this writers James Warner Bellah and Willis Goldbeck and director John Ford have fashioned an absorbing 111-minute technician production.

Strode makes a fine defendant, and Jeffery Hunter is even better as the white justice who elects to play frontier Jerry Mason and defend the Negro Sergeant. Others appearing capably in "Sergeant Rutledge" include Constance Flowers, Billie Burke and Janna Hernandez.

In one of the best touches in the movie, a group of Negro soldiers honor Strode as a symbol of the courage of their race by singing "Captain Buffalo." Written by Mack Davis and Jeffrey Livingston, its haunting refrain is used to advantage elsewhere.

Wild River (August 1-3) depicts Montgomery Clift as a government engineer sent to purchase land to make way for TVA dams in Tennessee. This could have resulted in a rough, violent story and/or a deep psychological study of the problem of the new and the old. Although both possibilities are approached, neither is fully embraced. Instead, the story centers around the romance between Clift and shapely Lee Remick.

The Clift-Remick affair starts out as a round-about way of getting Miss Remick's grandmother (Jo Van Fleet) to part with the 3000 acre plantation on which she has spent her life. But after a while the original purpose is clouded over and the script concentrates on Clift and Miss Remick.

CLIFT CLINGS CUNNINGLY. Montgomery Clift uses a love affair with Lee Remick to win his way into the good graces of her grandmother, who happens to own some land which stands in the way of his dam-building project. It all takes place in "Wild River," due Monday at the Garden.

Admittedly the latter is much more pleasing to the eyes than her octogenarian grandmother but the story suffers from the lengthy detour into the intricacies of love in the South.

"Wild River" was culled from two novels, "Mad on the Stars" by William Bradford Huie and "Dunbar's Cove" by Borden Deal, by script writer Paul Osborn. In CinemaScope and color, it was directed by the usually more vigorous Elia Kazan.

SHETLAND ISLES BUSY
Spinning for Cranbury Shop.

The shop in Cranbury operated by Toni Hastings (the e.e. cummings style is hers), specializes in Shetland wools and in hand-made woollens from the Shetland Isles. Mrs. Hastings points out, by the way, that "woollens," with two 't's' is the correct (i.e., British) spelling of the word when it is used as a noun. One "t" will do when it's an adjective. Care to dispute?

In any case, the woollens at Toni Hastings begin sumptuously with a lace cardigan which is more sophisticated than you might expect a Shetland product to be. It's hand-knit in the Isles out of oatmeal or grey Shetland yarn in a superb lace stitch, and the whole sweater weighs about two ounces, if that.

Other Shetlands are more conventional, with that unique emerald or sapphire yoke pattern that looks so much like Scandinavian knit but is unique in its own way. These come in cardigans, slipovers or V-neck slipovers for children.

For football, you'll want an Ivy League stole, specially dyed in Shetlands to please rosters for Princeton, Yale, Harvard or Dartmouth. These colored plaids are 66 inches long. There's also a neutral wool one for people who don't care who wins.

A fringed Shetland travel rug comes in all kinds of dyes. Rug measures 72 x 54. Shetland yarn to knit, comes in 40 colors.

The shop is particularly proud of wool by the yard with yarn to match. There's a choice of deep rose tweed, brown and blue tweed, or black and brown in a minute diamond pattern. The yarn is the same, of course.

Ballantyne sends from Scotland its line of classic cashmere cardigans. Holly red is new this year, and you'll wear it if you want a rich, deep red. Camel and deep lime green are very special, too.

To wear with your Shetland skirt, sweater and stole, buy a new fall bag in solid leather or leather and burlap, made in severely tailored style in mahogany brown or black. The black bag is particularly unusual, because bags of this kind are usually found in shades of brown. This black one could even go to the city.

Also working in Mrs. Donaldson's group are: Captain Leslie L. Myer, Jr., with solicitors Fred J. Githler, Thomas F. Huntington, Leonard M. Hymerling and Marshall Sittig; captain Mrs. Roger B. Kirkpatrick with solicitors Mrs. Hyman L. Battie, Jr., Mrs. Ralston H. Coffin, Mrs. Horace T. Cook and Mrs. Peter Lawson-Johnston.

Vice-Chairman Peter Rothermel of 125 Library Place has formed the following organization to solicit for special gifts: Captains: Mrs. John W. Ballantine, Daniel D. Dickey, Maurice F. Healy and Washington Irving; Solicitors: John W. Ballantine, Talmann Bissell, Mrs. Oscar Morgenstern, Arthur M. Sherwood, Harrison S. Fraker, Edward G. Green, E. Wain Harte, Crawford Madura, Jr., Fernand Barus, Clifford H. McCall, Mrs. John F. Mueller, Charles B. Straut, Alden S. Eldert, Jr., Roland Houquet, James G. Sciff and Basil W. Stetson.

Headed by Vice-Chairman Al-bridge C. Smith of 82 Lodge Road, the fourth newly-organized special gifts division includes Mrs. Roland T. Ely, Mrs. Gilbert Lee, Robert C. Miller and Henry S. Patterson, captains. The following are solicitors in the fourth division: James G. Campbell, Jr., Mrs. Percy H. Clark, Mrs. S. Leslie Tattersall, George Webster, Mrs. R. Allen Gardener, Mrs. Peter Rothermel, Mrs. D. Reed Stuart, Jr., Albert S. Wilson, Jr., Raymond A. Bowers, Joseph T. Hague, Mrs. Edgar Smith, William H. Sword, Walter F. Fullam, Leighton H. Laughlin, William H. Sayen, IV, and James R. Thayer.

LICENSES LOST BY 3637

Under State's Point System. The New Jersey point system resulted in 3637 drivers losing their licenses in the first six months of 1960. In addition to the suspensions, 178 probationary licenses and 94 warnings were issued.

According to Acting Motor Vehicle Director Paraskian, there has been steady action in cases of habitual violation under the point system, which considers a motorist liable to have his license suspended when he collects 12 or more points in a three-year period. The 3637 suspensions came from a total of 3948 drivers who were cited under the point system.

There is no backlog of unprocessed cases and none is foreseen, Mr. Paraskian reported. He noted that at present it takes an average of 26 days from the time a report of conviction is received from a municipal court to the time the Division of Motor Vehicles advises the defendant that there is a proposal to suspend his driving privileges.

Suspensions range for varying periods and depend on a number of factors, Mr. Paraskian observed. Taken into consideration are the amount of driving the defendant does, his need for a license, his attitude and the seriousness of the violations.

Each hearing is given individual attention and handled by one of group of well-trained and experienced officers, according to the director. Their evaluation of each case is based on the reports of convictions from municipal magistrates (cases from other states and the Canadian province are included).

Demerits under the point system include 12 for driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and for involvement in a fatal accident (if held responsible); eight for leaving the scene of an accident, six for reckless driving, four for speeding and three for all other moving violations. Although convictions are erased when they are over three years old, there is an added penalty of three demerits if a driver collects three convictions in an 18-month period.

The bicycle stopped with such abruptness that its riders, Larry Croft, 13, of 356 John Street and William Mealer, 11, of 21 Greenwood Avenue, were both thrown over the handlebars onto the road. Police, who were summoned, requested they be taken to Princeton Hospital in an ambulance.

Young Croft was treated for multiple contusions, abrasions, and lacerations of the head and face. He was admitted. The Mealer boy was released after being

YOUTH GROUPS HONORED By Princeton Kiwanis Club. Seven youth service organizations in the Princeton area were honored by the Kiwanis Club of Princeton. Past President of the Club, Dr. Russell S. Edmonds, presented checks from the Kiwanis Welfare Fund last Thursday to representatives of each of the organizations.

In addition to the seven service organizations, other gifts were presented previously to Princeton Boy and Girl Scouts, YMCA, Nighthall Baseball League, NNPI Children's Program and the Princeton Home-maker Service. The Home-maker service was organized about two years ago under Kiwanis sponsorship.

These awards are made possible through the Kiwanis Welfare Fund which is supported by receipts from the Kiwanis Film Series begun last fall at McCarter Theater. The 1960 series is entitled "The World Around Us" and will feature Lowell Thomas, Jr., Oct. 4; Quenton Keynes, Nov. 1; and Irving Johnson, Dec. 13.

MAN CUT SEVERELY

In Fall Through Glass Door. While walking down the stairs in his home at 146 John Street, Lloyd Banks, 26, tripped, and fell through a glass front door at the bottom of the stairs on to the street.

From the breaking glass Banks received severe cuts on his hand and forearm. He was taken to Princeton Hospital where 16 sutures on his left hand and two on his right forearm were done to close his wounds. The accident occurred early Thursday morning.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Divide Free In $300 Bail. A charge of taking parts from parked automobiles to use on his own car has resulted in a charge of breaking and entering against Bernard DeVito, 19, of the Brunswick Pike. Arraigned before Magistrate Theodore T. Tarsini, Jr., the defendant pleaded not guilty and was released in $300 bail for a hearing before the Grand Jury in Trenton.

Two motorists paid $5 court costs after fines in their cases were waived by the magistrate. Douglas W. Carlson, 30, Carter and Rocky Hill Roads, was charged with driving without his registration, while James Fitzpatrick, 36, Rosedale Road, was in court to answer a summons for use of improper plates.

SCIENCE

In Princeton

ONE PER 2000 PEOPLE

High "Computer Density" Here
The already-academic Princeton community is being helped by a new breed of "thinkers" electronic computers, to the tune of one computer per 2000 inhabitants of the greater Princeton area. Although exact figures are not available, the 13 Princeton-based computers probably make one of the greatest concentrations in a town of this size in the world, and quite likely one of the highest computer-to-population ratios.

In view of this, a group of computer-using scientists feel that a society should be formed to include all the individuals in the area working on computers. According to Dr. Irving Rabinowitz, head of the computer section at Project Matterhorn, such an organization is "long overdue" since there are some 100 people in the area who are actively in the computer business.

He noted that the Princeton computer population now includes one "large" machine, which will turn out an ordinary addition problem in about seven millionths of a second, five medium-sized computers and several smaller machines. These are all digital computers, meaning that they are glorified desk-calculators which think. There are also analog computers, which operate more like a slide rule and are more limited in application. In the Princeton area but these have not been included in either the above tabulation or the computing group.

Dr. Rabinowitz, who is working with Carl Heim of Educational Testing Service and Ralph Knopfstein of RCA's David Sarnoff Laboratories to form the society, reported that 75 replies were received to a questionnaire sent to all firms in the area either owning or using computers. He hopes that the first meeting of the professional group can be arranged for early fall.

Rapid Increase noted. Princeton began with one computer, the Von Neumann machine at the Institute for Advanced Study, in 1952, with the next computer coming in 1955. Since then, the computers have been added at an ever-increasing rate, four of them in the past few months alone.

Although many of the computers are rented from the manufacturers, both the largest unit and several of the smaller machines are owned by the firms actually using them. A rough estimate places the total value of the 13 computers at $4 to $5 million.

The latest addition to the Princeton computer fraternity is the "large" computer which has just been installed. In the new home of the Institute for Defense Analysis. One of the largest and fastest machines in the country, the $1 million computer will come close to doing the work of all the others in the Princeton area combined.

IDA's new electronic monster will be operated by the government-sponsored organization 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Princeton University, which is supplying the building for IDA, will be given 20 hours a week on the machine—equivalent to a year's operation of its present computer.

Early Computer Here

One of the first modern computers today sits, unused, in a small building near the Institute for Advanced Study. Designed by the late Prof. John Von Neumann, world famous mathematician, it was one of the first computers designed with a stored program, a series of instructions telling the computer what to do and when to do it.

Although another machine was built to Prof. Von Neumann's design before the Institute's computer was completed, the Von Neumann computer here was definitely "revolutionary," according to Dr. Irving Rabinowitz, head of the computer section at Project Matterhorn. It remained one of the fastest in the country for a period of years.

Originally built by the Institute under government sponsorship, the Von Neumann computer was later taken over by the University. It was shut down two years ago, as old age finally caught up with it.

Organizations in the Princeton area with computers in use include Project Matterhorn at the James Forrestal Research Center, RCA's David Sarnoff Research Center, RCA's Astro-Electronics Division, Institute for Defense Analysis, Educational Testing Service, Princeton University's Statistical Analysis Research Group, Texell Research Institute, Western Electric Aeronautical Research Associates of Princeton, and Machinery Corporation and Dodeco.

Both Dodeco and Aeronautical Research Associates have two computers in operation while ETS will exchange its IBM Model 650 for an RCA 501 this fall. In addition, there are several analog computers in the area, the largest installation being that at Electronic Associates of America.

At present there is a degree of "computer-swapping" among the various organizations, especially when one runs into a problem it cannot do on its own machine but would be able to do on another firm's computer. Also there are formal arrangements for using each other's computers, such as the agreement under which IDA has been using Matterhorn's and under which the University will use IDA's.

The center of the sun spot has been seen clearly for the first time in a photograph taken by a Princeton University astronomy team headed by Dr. Martin Schwarzschild. The photo, which reveals white gaseous dots within the spot's center, was taken last September from a balloon but not released until last week.

The importance of the photo of the white spots is that "it gives an indication of how magnetic fields reduce convective motion of white gases," Dr. Schwarzschild explained. He added that the understanding of such motion is both a step forward in the field of physics, which is basic to all attempts to harness the hydrogen bomb, and towards understanding the sun, which causes magnetic storms affecting communications.

The white dots which are so important are less than 200 miles in diameter. They are probably eddies of rising gases, similar to those which had previously been photographed elsewhere on the sun but were supposed to be magnetic field of the sun spot, Dr. Schwarzschild said.

A special film was used for the photo because sun spots do not produce as much light as the surface of the sun. The picture was taken from the Stratoscope I, a 12-inch balloon-borne telescope near Minneapolis, Minn.

A Joint National Science Foundation and Office of Naval Research project, Stratoscope is an outgrowth of the project to use skyhook balloons to explore the upper atmosphere begun in 1946. Stratoscope II, a 36-inch balloon-borne telescope is presently under development. In addition to support from National NSF and ONR, the Aeronautics and Space Administration has granted $100,000 for this phase of the project.

FRANK ALITO APPOINTED Hospital Nursing Director, Miss Jean A. Alito of Trenton has been appointed Director of Nursing at Princeton Hospital. It was announced this week. Miss Alito, who will assume her new duties on August 15, succeeds Miss Kathryn Sweeney who resigned as Director of Nursing Service in June. A graduate of St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing in Trenton, Miss Alito also attended the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., and Seton Hall University. In 1967 she received her bachelor's degree in nursing education from the University of Pennsylvania, and this year she received an M.S. degree in nursing education and administration from the same institution. As new Director of Nursing Miss Alito will have final responsibility for nursing service as well as for Princeton Hospital's School of Practical Nursing. Associated with St. Francis Hospital since 1941, she held the posts of staff nurse, head nurse, supervisor, night supervisor, director of nursing service and acting assistant director of St. Francis' School of Nursing.

Obituaries

Joseph S. Hoff, 83, former Princeton mayor, died Monday after a long illness at Merck, Princeton Hospital's Geriatric Unit.

Mr. Hoff was instrumental in the founding of the First National Bank of Princeton in 1893. For 67 years he was associated with the bank in virtually every capacity, retiring in May of this year as chairman of the bank's board of directors.

Born in Princeton in 1866, Mr. Hoff was the son of Ignatius George and Elizabeth Hoff. He attended Princeton schools and was graduated in 1885 from Rider College, where he taught for a year following his graduation. Active throughout his life in Princeton civic affairs, Mr. Hoff was elected tax collector in 1892.

From 1929 to 1938, Mr. Hoff served three terms as mayor of Princeton. A personal friend of Woodrow Wilson, Mr. Hoff was appointed president of the State Civil Service Commission in 1911 by the late president. In 1923 the Governor Edwards appointed him chairman of New Jersey penal institutions, in which capacity he served from 1922 to 1927. In 1943, he was appointed to the state Board of Tax Appeals by Governor Charles Evans Hughes.

Mr. Hoff was chairman of the Mercer County Democratic Committee for 25 years and a member of the Democratic State Committee for 24 years. A lifelong member of the Holy Name Society and a communicant of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Mr. Hoff was also a member of the Trenton Lodge of Elks and for over 60 years an active member of the Mercer Engine Co. No. 3.

Mr. Hoff was married to Emily Thompson, who died in 1943. He is survived by several nieces and nephews. Funeral arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, Solenn Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Paul's Church at 11 a.m. this Thursday.

Michael C. Kopliner, 63, of 120 Prospect Avenue, died July 21 of cancer in Princeton Hospital. The head of Princeton University's proctors for the past 15 years and a member of the proctoring staff for 22 years before that, "Mike" Kopliner was known to thousands of Princeton alumni, many of whom had had embarrassing professional encounters with the disciplinarian when they were undergraduates.

"Mike," who was appointed to the staff in 1922, was known to all undergraduates by his nickname, and was, in turn, on first name terms with every member of the administration and most of the University's undergraduates.

Until the state of his health compelled him to curtail his activities, he played weekly squash-requests games with Dr. Robert F. Gohren, president of the University.

Mr. Kopliner recorded his memoirs on tape during his stay in Princeton Hospital, and these reminiscences served as the basis for an article, "The World of Mike Kopliner," which appeared in the May 27 issue of the Princeton Alumni Weekly.

"Today's undergraduates," the article said, "preceeding nearly on the assumption that they have devised a novel brand of hell to raise, would be sadly deflated to learn that one reason a proctor appears so promptly is that Mike Kopliner has seen it all before, at least twice."

His ability to sniff out trouble was a campus legend. It is said the during prohibition Mr. Kopliner was in the campus headquarters of a visiting bootlegger, busy closing down the illegal operations, when the telephone rang. It was an undergraduate calling to place an order and he gave his full name and address before learning that he was speaking to the proctor.

Born in Emburst, N.Y., Mr. Kopliner served in 1916 with General Fighting along the Mexican border, and later spent over a year with the AEF in Europe with the 7th Infantry Division. He earned three battle stars during World War I. His association with Princeton began when he re-enlisted in the Army in 1919 to become a sergeant instructor in the Army's ROTC unit at the University.

He was elected to Borough Council in 1945 and was active in many civic organizations including the Princeton playground program, the Boy Scouts and the Princeton First Aid Unit.

Mr. Kopliner is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marion Kopliner; a daughter, Mrs. Horace Stenaker, of Lightfoot, and two sons, both of whom are policemen. Surviving James Kopliner is a member of the Borough police force and Patrolman Michael C. Kopliner, Jr., is on the Township police force. He is also survived by six grandchildren, a brother and a sister.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home and requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Roman Catholic church with interment in the parish cemetery.

Irving L. Roe, 84, of 7 Bayard Lane died July 25 at Merwick after a long illness. Mr. Roe was one of a group of Princeton residents who, in 1924, were instrumental in organizing Princeton Junior School for boys, now Princeton Country Day School. He served as secretary and treasurer of the School from then until his retirement in 1948, when he was made an honorary trustee for life.

The youngest son and seventh of eight children of the late Albert Seely Roe and Rhyanah Aims Chamberlain Roe, Mr. Roe attended Harvard School in New York City and was an 1897 graduate of Princeton University. He joined the New York Life Insurance and Trust Co. in 1899 and rose to the position of secretary of the firm. Since his retirement in 1922, Mr. Roe had made his home in Princeton.

In 1913, he married Helena Alice Suberland of New Castle-Upon-Tyne, England, who survives him. He also leaves a son, Albert Suberland Roe of Wilmington, Delaware; a sister, Mrs. A. R. Hadley of Syracuse, N.Y., and three grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at 2:45 Thursday at Trinity Episcopal Church with the Rev. Charles C. Newberry officiating. There will be a private interment at Stony Brook Meeting House Cemetery, funeral home.

Beverly L. Everett, 85, of White Horse, died July 22. A farmer, Mr. Everett had served as a school bus driver in West Windsor Township for many years. He was a former elder of Dutch Neck Presbyterian Church and a former superintendent of Clarksville Sunday School. He was also a member of Century Council 100, Jr. O.U.A.M. and Camp 186, P.O.S. of A. Dutch Neck.

Mr. Everett is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Coleman Everett; three daughters: Mrs. Lesterday W. Reed and Mrs. Harold W. Terpine of Dutch Neck and Mrs. Warren H. Petty of Cranbury; a brother, W. Harry Everett of White Horse, nine grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Saul Colonial Home, Hamilton Square, the Rev. Russell G. Martin of Calvary Baptist Church, White Horse, officiating. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

Lloyd C. Merritt, Sr., 68, 253 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton, died July 25. A retired employee of a hardware store, he had lived in and near Lawrenceville for 45 years. He was born in Pompton Lakes.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Merritt and five sons: Daniel, Harold, Dehnar and Donald, all of Trenton, and Lloyd C. Merritt, Jr., of Hightstown; two sisters and two brothers.

The service was held at the Saul Memorial Home, with interment in Ewing Cemetery.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED

By Knights of Columbus. New officers were installed Monday for the Knights of Columbus, Princeton Council, No. 636 by District Deputy Charles Schino of Trenton. The new Grand Knight, Peter G. Sannino promises 1960 will be a "banner year."

Other officers of the organization include Rev. Father William Murray, St. Paul's Church, chaplain; James McGuire, lecturer; and Michael Corio, six-point program chairman. Committeemen are Arthur Muchlisen, Catholic action; James Kannon, council activity; George Wood, fraternal; William Barclay, youth program; John Stachowicz, membership and publicity; and Edgar Dornier, publicity.

A recent activity of the Knights was a concert of classical, semi-classical and folk songs given at Morris Hall, Lawrenceville on Sunday. The event proved to be so successful that another concert is being planned. The group has also sent youths to Camp Columbus in Whitney, N.J.

The next scheduled event is a steak cookout on Saturday for members and their guests.

School Guards Sought

It's almost August, school starts in six weeks, and Township police are still looking for three people—men or women—to serve as school crossing guards.

The job pays about $4 a day, depending on the crossing. For the morning period, which lasts about half an hour, the Township pays $1.50. For the afternoon period, which may be an hour or longer, the pay is $2.50.

Guards who man the crossings at noon, in addition to morning and afternoon, receive $6 a day. Applications may be made at the police desk in Township hall.

WADING POOL OPENED

For Children 6 to 10. The Princeton Township Recreation Commission has announced the opening of a new wading pool for children age six to ten. It is the first in the Township for this age-group.

The pool is located on Grover Avenue and the Commission suggests that the best approach is through the upper gate of the Playground from the Shopping Center Parking area. Janet Stefan will be in charge of the daily wading hours, which will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

Both the playground and the pool are under the supervision of the Playgrounds Committee, an agency of the United Community Fund. William Valk directs the playground, where various activities are offered daily for children six to 16. Playground hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. There are no activities between noon and 1 p.m.

In playground activity last week Barbara Sejnowski's dog, "Boy," won first prize in the dog show, and John McKinney received a blue ribbon for his stamp collection. Douglas Rickett won first place in the pipe cleaner art contest.

A photography contest and a doll contest were featured at the Riverside Playground. Susan Voorces won the doll competition and Joel Thompson was the victor in the photography display. At Valley Road during the past week, activities included chess, checkers, zellball, softball, race handicraft and stories. Mike Floyd's model plane collection won the Hobby Show contest at Valley Road.

Glen Johnson won the fifty-yard dash for children nine and over at the Littlebrook playground last week, and Gary McCleery won the event for the younger children. The team of Mark Rosso, Jerry Steele, Mollie Rosso, Elizabeth Hoffman, Joe Olgey and Wendy Rappaport won the relay race at Littlebrook. At the High School Playground Richie Volt won the zellball championship and Susan Hartley won the spelling bee title. Tony Pirone and Tim Flood were horse-shoe doubles winners, Mark Jet-fries won the Hobby Show, and Albert Tolo won the home run derby last week. Children at the Harrison Park Playground enjoyed a watermelon party, a zellball tournament, and games of pin - the - the - flame - on - the rocket, a modern adaptation of an ancient classic.

In a tight game on the High School Playground, the High School group edged Riverside, 4-3, in softball in a game marked by a triple play engineered by Mark Hallum. In other softball games, Jugtown defeated Harrison 11-4. Valley Road downed Grover Avenue 12-5; Harrison defeated Littlebrook, 8-4; Jugtown stopped Grover Avenue while Riverside upset Valley Road. Valley Road and Jugtown (Erdman Avenue Playground) are deadlocked for first place in the league standings.

THE 13 CLOCKS. And Ecco More. "The thing about clocks is, you get maybe one clock and then you get interested, and before you know it, you've started a collection."

David Clare, of Carter Road speaks from experience. He has had collections of clocks, off and on, ever since he became interested in timepieces as a soldier in World War II. He studied watch repair in the Army, and his interest in the general nature of time developed and grew until by 1949 he found he was more and more interested in clocks and less and less interested in watches. So he gave up watches, and began to specialize in the repair of clocks. And the collecting of clocks.

At the moment—and the "moment" shifts from day to day, or even with the day, as clients come to pick up their clocks or to leave new ones—as we say, at the moment, Mr. Clare has 13 clocks in his livingroom even as James Thurber.

It's quite an experience to be in the Clare living-room when the strokes, Bongs, ping, chime, ship's bell, cuckoo—they all go off, not quite at once but in a kind of staccato sequence that can be unnerving or fascinating, depending on how much sleep one has had the night before.

Time On His Hands. "I'm sentimental about clocks," admits Mr. Clare, "and I like best the old American clocks made before 1800, although my favorite piece was a 300-year-old Dutch hood clock which I sold. I used to pick up these clocks at auctions in New York, from about 1917 on, but I haven't been to many auctions lately."

The reason he hasn't is that clients keep him busy at his repair bench. He has several country clocks including three so-called OO-mantel clocks, waiting to be picked up by owners, and a rare pointed steeple clock which looks like a little wooden church. He has an austere dignified ship's clock embedded in a desk set, and another ship's clock which seems to be the outdoor, or deck type. It's enclosed in a brass case against sail spray, and it is been screwed so tightly into that case that scarcely a whiff of the sea could enter. This is a clock made by the Chelsea Clock Company of Boston, renowned as makers of reliable ship's clocks.

One of the 13 is an old walnut "school-room clock" of the kind that used to hang in every classroom 50 years ago. The striking thing about this clock is its delicate walnut inlay and the gold filigree on its door, both unusual in utilitarian clocks of that kind. "One clock I'm working on now is an old wooden one," Mr. Clare says. "Clocks with wooden works were made extensively back in

IT KEEPS THE BEST TIME: David Clare, clock collector and clock repairman, is shown above with one of the most accurate clocks ever made. A product of late 19th-century French watch-making. It was designed not for homes but for jewelry shops where it was used to check accuracy of clocks sent in for repair. It's brass, with brass shafts and pendulum and a wide-open face in sharp black and white for easy reading. It hangs in Mr. Clare's living room. (Staff Photo)

130 YEARS OF TIME: This American weight-driven eight-day clock is one of the oldest in the collection of clocks owned by David Clare, Carter Road. Apparently it once belonged to a sea-faring man, because it has gilded dolphins at the top and a seascape behind the glass below the dial. It was made about 1830 by Barnes Bartholomew of Bristol, Connecticut, and is, of course, in fine working order.

1820 or so, and I still get a lot of them to repair. The works were made of fruitwood or oak and they still tick away, as sturdy as an old oak itself."

More Time in Town? In novelty clocks, Mr. Clare's favorites are the "blinking eye" clocks made back in the twenties. Usually they were the figures of Topsy, Sambo or a Continental Soldier, made with a dial in the chest which was connected with the eyes, so that the eyes moved as the clock ticked. They were given away as premiums in their day, but modern collectors pay $100 each for them.

Mr. Clare, a New Yorker most of his life, became a suburban Princetonian about a year ago, but he's thinking of leaving the country—that is, Carter Road, and moving his clock repair shop "back into the city again"; that is, into the Borough of Princeton.

INCREASE NOTED

To Teachers. From Princeton. Both the quality and the quantity of Princeton alumni who enter the teaching profession have been increasing. According to a joint study made by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation and the Office of the Dean of the College of Princeton, the number of Princeton graduates who chose teaching as a career has increased at a rate of two percent a year since 1962.

The survey also noted that a greater percentage of honors graduates are selecting teaching. Comparative figures for the classes of 1965 and 1969 reveal that while 17.5 percent of the honors recipients from the former class entered the teaching profession, 31 percent of the honors men in the class of 1969 did so.

Fifty-three members of the class of 1965 are currently teaching or are planning to teach while 82 alumni of the class of 1969 have selected teaching. A total of 10.4 percent of the class of '65 chose teaching; for the class of 1969 the figure increased to 18.4 percent.

According to the study, the increase in graduates who eventually go into teaching is a recent development. Referring to Robert Ziebarth's senior thesis, written in 1958, the study declared that "there had been no significant change in the percentage of graduates entering teaching" until 1962.

Report from THE MAYOR

Friday Open House. The regularly weekly "Tell It to the Mayor!" sessions will be resumed this week on Friday, July 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. Another of these meetings, for which no appointment is ever required, will be held on Friday, August 5. The Mayor is most anxious to continue these weekly opportunities for the exchange of views and for answering questions from interested citizens.

The Quiet Princeton. It was after 2 a.m. when the Mayor and his family returned to Princeton after driving more than 8,000 miles around the United States. For those residents who may not have taken the opportunity to do so, we might suggest a nocturnal tour of our town.

En route to Borough Hall to write this report the Mayor found the stillness of Princeton and the beauty of the trees and buildings really thrilling. Those who ponder our traffic problems would find it refreshing to walk or drive on Nassau Street at such an hour — for not a single car was parked on either side. Perhaps it was the vacation absence from Princeton that made the heart beat just a bit faster with pride at this magnificent sight.

In too many towns across America the sprawling growth has uprooted much of the beauty of earlier years. Nowhere else did we see tree-lined streets where the foliage could form such a rich canopy over so many of the thoroughfares.

"Masterpiece Of Awe" In the information center and museum recently built at the south rim of the Grand Canyon in Arizona, Princeton is very much represented. Just inside the door, in hold letters, is the first of a series of quotations from Henry van Dyke, the poet of Avalon:

"What force has formed this masterpiece of awe? What hands have wrought these wonders in the waste?"

Have Feet - Will Travel. Under this poster heading, an enterprising teenager in Santa Fe, New Mexico, listed a phone number and indicated availability to conduct walking tours as a guide to visitors to that historic town. Perhaps this idea may have some inspiration for Princeton where so many visitors try to find knowledgeable and interested local folks to help them enjoy a brief tour of our town.

In The Mail. By 5 a.m., the Mayor had made a hurried trip through the mounds of mail that had accumulated during the vacation absence. Being Mayor is lots of fun; and the mail is a reflection of the ever-changing facets of the job. The new batch includes urban renewal in the wake of the Supreme Court decision — and some lighter ones — like the letter from a gentleman in Bedford, Iowa, who enclosed a clipping from a Missouri newspaper.

The newspaper item states that "A row of catalpa trees planted in Princeton, I.J. by Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, burst into bloom on Independence Day annually for nearly 100 years." Perhaps one of our citizens will help the Mayor reply to the request for further information about this item!

Topics Of The Town

ment it was revealed that 82 percent of the class of '60 will be attending graduate school during the coming academic year. This figure is about ten percent above normal, the study asserted.

PLANS INITIATED

For 300th Anniversary of N.J. The mayors of Princeton's two municipalities have received a letter from the New Jersey Tercentenary Commission suggesting that they organize a program to observe the state's 300th anniversary in 1964. Noting that events in 1964 marked "the beginning of the separate history of New Jersey as a colony" the letter suggests several possible ways to begin organizing for the anniversary four years from now. Included in the list of recommendations is a suggestion that the mayor establish a Municipal Tercentenary Commission in order to provide for "broad-based community participation." The appointment of a town historian and the erection of signs at the entrance of the community, identifying it and saying a word about its significance, are recommended.

It is further suggested that communities place dates on historic buildings, write and publish a municipal history, restore historical buildings and plan a homecoming celebration, parade and pageant. The letter recommends that the mayor inaugurate a community archives program in conjunction with the local library or historical society.

Letters containing the foregoing suggestions were mailed to the 567 municipal mayors in New Jersey. The letter notes that Gov. Robert E. Meyner signed the law creating the Tercentenary Commission in 1958 and outlines the recommendations of the State Legislature. Similar letters had been sent to New Jersey's 21 counties, and action to organize 15-man County Committees has already been approved in 11 counties.

MUSIC SEASON TO END

With programs at PHS. Programs marking the close of the ninth summer season of music study at Princeton High School will be held Thursday and Friday evening at 8. They will be open to the public.

On Thursday evening, instrumental pupils will perform in orchestra, band and smaller ensembles. Staff members preparing these groups include Sylvan —Continued on Page 18

AIRPORT KEEPS PACE

With growing community. With the ever-increasing demand for "getting there fast" and "beating the traffic," Princeton Airport is assuming a more and more vital position in the local communications picture. Alone in the business since the Nassau Airport closed in 1959, this diminutive airstrip has become the site of a mushroom of activity. Services offered include parking for private planes, charter flights, air taxi, sightseeing spins about the Princeton area, and flight instruction.

The man in charge of this operation is Howard Bartholomew, who has been running various airports in the New Jersey-Eastern Pennsylvania area for the past 20 years, the last five here on Route 206, just north and west of Princeton. "Bart" first started flying with the Detached Service at Camp Dix in 1931, training West Point cadets in aerial observation. His staff includes flight instructors Tom Somerville, James Gilm and Tom Woods, and mechanics Claude Lewis and George Blinn.

Business under this administration has shown great increase. When Mr. Bartholomew took over the reins five years ago, the airport was handling eight planes. The number has now grown to 38, 30 privately owned.

Student instruction has soared from the four or five students usually handled in 1953 to the present 40 (not including the Princeton University Flying Club, pending contracts with the Air Force R.O.T.C. and the 1st Army Pilot Training program, and students receiving instruction under the "Princeton" Administration and the G.I. Bill). The Air Taxi Service, which consisted of four or five trips a month to points within the Boston-Washington area, is made up now of close to 75. The reason for this can be seen in the comparative time for a trip to Idlewild Airport from Princeton: Two and a half to three hours by any other means of transportation, 25-30 minutes by air taxi. One new hangar has already been built, and another, to be used as a shop, is being completed.

An Asset to Business. One of the reasons for this great activity is the large number of Princeton businesses and research plants which find it convenient to use the services of Princeton Airport especially for the rushing of needed articles and important personnel to and from different points in the area. Companies such as RCA, General Devices, ASCOP and the Forrestal Research Center are regular customers; and even newcomers to the Princeton scene, such as Western Electric, have used the services of the airport several times.

It is ironic that an enterprise which is beginning to be of importance to the economic maturity and progress of this community should be in greater danger of being closed down than it was when it played a much less significant role. This is obviously not the result of lagging business.

It is to be attributed rather to the physical limitations of the airfield itself. In the first place, there was actually more runway space in 1930 than there is now; and, secondly, the lack of a hard-surface runway keeps the field in the "punch-box" category.

There is also considerable pressure from rapidly increasing taxes and the large amount of land needed for landing space by even the smaller planes. Not only has the business outgrown the physical plant, but the property itself is becoming too expensive to maintain.

In the face of these problems, "Bart" has indicated that he is about to give up his airstrip. He feels that this community needs the services his business has to offer, and that the presence of an airport is a great incentive for corporations to have plants in the Princeton vicinity. As he puts it: "Businesses which use airports are the 'going' businesses."

There are several plans in the making concerning the future of Princeton Airport. The present operator's own plan involves forming a private company to buy sufficient land in the immediate vicinity to make a runway long enough to land planes as large as DC-3's, to put a hard surface on all the runways, and to rebuild the terminal frontage with a motel, restaurant and new offices.

This plan also includes the setting up of land not used for runways for long-term lease to research companies interested in having an airport close at hand. "Bart" admits that this is a dream, but has high hopes for its realization. Others may well hope so, too—highway traffic on the Eastern Seaboard is not much fun, nor does it appear that conditions will improve for quite some time.

THOMAS MABBOIT EDITOR
OF New Edgar A. Poe Edition.
A new annotated edition of the complete works of Edgar Allan Poe, edited by Thomas O. Mabbot of 44 Hollingwood, will be published by The Belnap Press of Harvard University Press. The first volume of the six-volume edition, planned for publication in 1961, will contain the poems of Poe.
This new edition will include material discovered since 1902, year of the last complete Poe edition and will be the first complete collection of Poe's writings to appear in 60 years. A great deal of the work by the world-famous Poe scholar was done in Princeton University's Firestone Library. Prof. Mabbot, now spending his eighth summer in Princeton, is a member of the Department of English at Hunter College.

Three Princeton residents graduated last week along with 278 other Army Reserve officers from the United States Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

The purpose of the five-year program, completed last week, is to qualify reserve officers for duty with the general staff of combat divisions or logistical commands. The Princeton graduates were: Lt. Colonel Kendrick S. Few, 278 Nassau Street; Lt. Colonel Alan C. Poole, 75 Alexander Street; and Major Irving Van Zandt, Jr., Ridgeview Road.

Two Princeton women are listed among the workers whose efforts aided Goucher College of Towson, Maryland, to realize a total of $5,165,000 in its 75th anniversary campaign. The fund drive, begun in 1967, aimed at increasing faculty salaries, scholarship programs, and at construction of several campus buildings. The Princeton workers were Miss Natalie W. Vaughan, 44 Princeton Avenue, and Mrs. Roger W. Rollins of 86 Spruce Street.

AGENCY TO OPEN

For Buick, Pontiac. The new Kammiller-Buick Agency on Route 206 opposite Princeton Airport will open officially next Thursday, offering to Princeton residents a complete line of Buicks and Pontiacs and a modern service department which includes a separate department for lubrication and car washing.

The colonial brick structure, on four acres of land, has 12,000 square feet of floor space, and will have a belt of grass 100 feet deep and 300 feet across the front and two acres of back-lot. A U-shaped road will bring customers in at the southern side of the property and take them out at the northern edge where used cars will be displayed.

In the service department, which will be operated under the direction of Norman Annland, who has been in Buick-Pontiac service departments since 1918, the new agency will have four mechanics, including a transmission specialist. Each man will have his own hydraulic lift and his own work "bay." The lubrication specialist will be James Mitchell, who held the same position with Gregory - Buick, the former Princeton agency.

George Cramer, who was also with Gregory-Buick, will be sales manager, assisted by John Burdick and Donald Saul. Harry Amen, a driver at Princeton University for 18 years, will handle the pick-up and delivery service.

Cory Kammiller, head of the new agency, has been with Buick since the end of World War II. His grandfather started a Buick agency in Elizabeth, N.J., in 1900 and his father became a Buick dealer in 1915.

In addition to heading the Princeton agency, Mr. Kammiller is president of Kammiller Auto Lease in Elizabeth, and plans to operate his leasing agency from Princeton, offering cars on a daily, monthly or yearly basis. His agency is affiliated with the Cars Rental System and Mr. Kammiller is on the national advisory board of the organization.

ANNIVERSARY FOR GRIGGS

Opened at Same Spot in 1920. On August 1, 1920, Burnett Griggs started his restaurant at 58 Witherspoon Street. Since then Palmer Square has been built, the old trolley has disappeared and a parking yard has gone up across the way, but Griggs' Restaurant is thriving under the direction of the founder himself.

Mr. Griggs, who will mark his 73rd birthday in early September, still works behind the counter, coming in at 4 every morning and staying until 1 p.m., and then returning from 4 to 7 p.m. What started as a near one-man operation now employs a staff of five.

The proprietor likes to credit his success to "the people of Princeton." In particular, he singles out the former president of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, Edmund L. Howe, who suggested that he go into business and assisted with the loan that made it possible.

At the time, Mr. Griggs was working at Campus Club (where he had been for 11 years). He continued his job there for the first year the restaurant was open, using a couple to run it during the day and keeping it going himself in the evenings.

Changes Noted. When Palmer Square was going up in 1936, Mr. Griggs sold a 19-foot strip of land to permit the widening of Hulfish Street to serve as a route to the square. Although he was in favor of Palmer Square itself, Mr. Griggs doesn't support the actions of Princeton Municipal Improvement Company in buying up the land on Jackson Street. He feels PMI deliberately created a "blighted area" by allowing the property to run down to "get the rest of the property without paying the full value for it."

A foe of Urban Renewal, Mr. Griggs thinks the Borough has handled the project in the wrong manner. He claims that "all of the trouble," including the recent State Supreme Court decision against the Borough, could have been avoided if the Borough had made arrangements to "sit down with the property owners to get something satisfactory."

JOINS WAINFORD AGENCY: Max E. Browning of 35 Dawson Road, Franklin Park, has joined the staff of P. J. Wainford & Company, Princeton employment agency, as Operations Manager.

While the surrounding area has been changing, business has also had its ups and downs for Mr. Griggs. It hit its peak during the war, when the University was doing its part in the war effort, and tapered off thereafter. In an effort to serve the student night owls and early risers such as milkmen, Mr. Griggs moved his opening hour from 8 to 4 a.m. a few years ago.

At present, business is, if anything, a bit heavier than Mr. Griggs would like. Help is difficult to get, he says, and he admits he is growing older. Also, he occasionally likes to get away for fishing (especially flyfishing) on the coast.

BROWNING JOINS WAINFORD

As Operations Manager. Max E. Browning of 35 Dawson Road, Kendall Park, has joined the staff of P. J. Wainford & Company, Princeton Employment Agency, as Operations Manager.

A graduate of the Sorbonne in Paris, Mr. Browning was formerly the security officer with Educational Testing Service and Assistant Economic Commissioner with the Mutual Security Agency in Europe. He also has an electronic engineering certificate from Purdue University.

In addition to screening executive and engineering personnel for the agency, Mr. Browning will be in charge of the proposed expansion program of the Company's specialized business services in the technical and non-technical fields. Its offices are at 92 Nassau Street.

PR. MANOR SELLS 55 LOTS

Shifts from Construction. As part of a shift out of the residential construction field, Princeton Manor Construction Company has sold 55 lots in the Township to the Sandean Construction Company, builders of Brackley and Brynmawr. Princeton Manor will take greater interest in the fields of land investment, land improvement and commercial construction, with a sub-contracting type of operation.

The firm introduced indoor swimming pools and indoor gardens into the Princeton area, with 10,000 people visiting its display home on Pantall Road in August, 1958. It was chosen by leading manufacturers of the building industry to construct this version of the "Story Book Home" in Princeton.

Since its founding in 1953, Princeton Manor has completed over 30 custom homes, all designed by leading architects, under its $1 million building program. The firm will retain its business office at 10 Nassau Street after the completion of its current building operation.

TRAFFIC INCREASES

At County Airport. Traffic volume at Mercer County Airport during the first half of this year has increased by more than 21 percent over the same period last year, according to an announcement by Freeholder Richard J. Coffee, airport director. One major cause for the increase was the initiation on June 1 of the new north-south air service which provides two round trips daily from Mercer County Airport to both Boston and Washington, D.C.

"As more people become acquainted with the convenience of traveling directly from the Airport," Mr. Coffee declared, "the north-south service will become increasingly popular." The Freeholder predicted a rise in passenger volume which would strengthen our position in asking for an increased number of flights serving Trenton.

During the first six months of this year, the control tower cleared a total of 18,181 flights in and out of the airport, an increase of 3,194 over the first six months of 1959. For the past 20 months, with only one exception, monthly traffic volume has been increasing, Coffee reported.

BEAUTY CONTEST PLANNED

At New Jersey State Fair. "Miss New Jersey State Fair"

MEDICAL ASSISTANT: A graduate of New York City's Mandel School for medical office assistants is Miss Mary Louise Chase of 73 Stockton Street.

will be selected on the opening night of the 1960 State Fair at Trenton, Sunday, September 18. Last year's winner, Miss Isabelle C. Orr of Egg Harbor will crown her successor.

All girls, single, and 16 years of age and over who are residents of New Jersey, are eligible. The eliminations will be held at 7 p.m. on the opening day.

The queen will preside over activities at the fair, which will end on Sunday, September 25. She will receive the "Miss New Jersey State Fair" trophy and a $100 savings bond. The contestants will be judged in shorts and blouses and the judging will be based on beauty of face and figure; health and care of body; symmetry of figure and stage presence. Entry blanks may be obtained by writing the New Jersey State Fair office, Box 669, Trenton.

CARE WORKER NEEDED

Civil Service Exam Set. The New Jersey Department of Civil Service will hold an examination for the position of Case Worker in the County Welfare Department next Tuesday. The exam is scheduled for 6:30 P. M. at the State Employment Office, 6 North Willow Street, Trenton, with applications to be completed then.

Eligible are male or female residents of the county holding a bachelor's degree from an accredited college and having a New Jersey driver's license. Case workers provide services to welfare clients and their families. The work includes interviewing, counseling and preparing case histories.

ATTENDANCE UP

At Lawrence Playgrounds. Attendance for the first three weeks of the 1960 playground season for five Lawrence Township playgrounds has increased over the previous year, it was reported by Committeeman Samuel De Gasperi, director of recreation. Attendance figures from June 21 to July 15 totaled 5066.

Some of the coming events in August include a bubble gum contest, next Monday at all playgrounds; tennis tournament, Aug. 8-10; picnic and field day, Aug. 11; Little Minor League Playoffs, Aug. 15-16; all Lawrence Jr. High; quilt tournament, Aug. 17; and fishing contest, Aug. 20. There will also be an assembly at Lawrence Junior High on the 13th for a trip to see the Phillies and Cubs play a major league baseball game.

WILL SEE "SOUTH PACIFIC"

At Music Circus. A buffet supper followed by a trip to see a performance of "South Pacific" at the Lambertville Music Circus second special event of the Y-Wednesday evening will mark the Teen summer program. It was announced by the YM-YWCA.

The complete price for the outing, including the buffet supper which begins at 6 at the YMCA Building on Avalon Place and transportation to the musical, is $2.25 for the Y-Teens, $2.65 for all YM-YWCA members and $3 for guests. Reservations for the event can be made at the "Y" Building.

FOOTBALL, OUTLOOK—III

This is the third of a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1960.

Thin Spots Show. It takes only a brief look at Princeton's depth chart for 1960 to realize how short of experience the Tigers will be at several key positions. While it is true that they can start a letterman at ten of 11 places (right end is the exception), depth is noticeably lacking in some spots.

In at least four positions, Princeton will not be able to play without fielding what the trade refers to as "green peas." The rebuilding assignment will be most difficult at both ends, center and quarterback.

Belief is that, despite the lack of proven material, the situation at end will be less troublesome as the season progresses than at center and quarterback. There is one solid starter (Jim Blair) available at left end, two or three varsity reserves of fair promise and at least two big, eager sophomores.

At center, Jerry Sullivan's ability to avoid the injuries that dogged him for a good part of last season holds the key to defensive strength of the center of the line. With the varsity reserves extremely short of game action and nothing above average available in sophomore strength, center could be a real trouble spot for the Tigers.

Quarterback Needed. Twice in the past-year era, Princeton has had a quarterback who broke into the lineup in his first game as a sophomore and held the job for three years. Such longevity at the key blocking back, signal-calling slot is extremely valuable—witness the fact that George Chandler ran the unbeaten champions of 1950 as a senior and that the Tigers' lone Ivy title since the league went formal in '56 was won under the guidance of Jack Sapech in his final season the following year.

Since Sapech departed, the Tigers have had problems filling the two back assignments in the single-wing formation. Mike Ippolito, a versatile triple threat, was shifted from wingback in an effort to fill Sapech's shoes in 1958, but the experiment never really jelled and last fall he moved to fullback—his original position on his unbroken freshman team.

Last summer belief was that a sophomore by the name of Phil Clark might develop fast enough to take the job, but injuries slowed him at Blairstown and he never did fit into the picture. Today, he is hoping to break into the 1960 scene as a guard.

A little-known senior, Jay Cullen, came along to win the starting assignment and actually saw more action than any other back save Ippolito. But Cullen's bench-warming of previous years took its toll periodically as the Tiger acted operated in fits and starts traceable in some degree to his inexperience. Now, he, too, is graduated and the Tigers are looking again—very possibly at a sophomore who might make the grade for a full three years.

In the Princeton scheme of things—largely because there is no spring practice—no sophomore is ever listed higher than fourth on the pre-season depth chart. The first three places go to probable starters and varsity reserves whom the coaches have seen in action for a minimum of one season.

Even before the three-week session at Blairstown was ended however, a few members of the Class of 1963 will have moved up the ladder—one or two, possibly to a starting assignment. By positions this is the personnel rundown a month before the squad prepares to begin pre-season drills.

Ends: The team's leading pass receiver (22 for 238 yards) is 6-1, 191-lb. Jim Blair, a two-year letterman who is assured of the job at left end. A pair of reserves, 6-2 Jim Hunter and 5-11 Andy Prochilo, will be hard pressed for the runner-up spot by sophomore Barry Schuman, a 6-3 standout on last year's freshman.

On the other side of the line, the task of replacing Ed Kostechnik, a three-year letterman and defensive standout, is more than the Tigers can handle at short notice. With the graduation, too, of Ron Hillegass, right end is a real problem. A 6-3, 206-lb. sophomore, Dennis Keller, may be the eventual answer; he'll battle Bill MacKenzie, a 6-1 varsity reserve and a pair of last year's jayvees, 6-2 Al Zink and 6-3 Ab Lawrence, for the post.

Tackles: A pair of tested lettermen on whom the coaching staff places great trust are slated for the starting assignment. John Craig and Clark Woolley, both just

THE CHANGING SCENE: After more than 60 years of use as a baseball diamond, University Field is being demolished to become the site for Princeton's new Engineering Quadrangle. The stands which once stood along third base have been removed and bulldozers are leveling land in preparation for the building program. The brand new structure seen above is the home of the Institute for Defense Analysis, government-sponsored mathematical research center for which the University has provided headquarters. with little expected this fall from the sophomore crop.

Center: As indicated, the key player is 196-lb. Jerry Sullivan who has all the necessary potential to become a fine center if he stays healthy. However, since Sullivan and the departed Savetev and Walt Kira, subvirtually all the action there last fall, varsity reserves Dick Eckfeldt (192) and John Colyer (195) have had little or no experience. There are no sophomores of special promise and if Sullivan is sidelined by injuries, real trouble could develop.

Wingback: There are four lettermen and one good sophomore, so that Jake McCandless, moving into the varsity picture as backfield coach, will have more than usual depth here. Hopes are that Mike Iserson, 6-3, 198-lb. senior will have one injury-free year, after missing his final two games as a sophomore and the last five in 1959. Iserson is the likely starter; after him come veterans John MacMurray (176), Ron Goldman (181), Charlie Phillips (176) and Don Terpack (165), a potential sophomore bet.

Quarterback: Seniors Bill Marr (203) and Jon Hagstrom (200) both won letters last year but do not qualify as experienced quarterbacks. If this is really a rebuilding year for the Tigers, one in which they will work with one eye on better results a year from now, it could be that sophomore John Henrich will fit increasingly into the picture. With a few exceptions (George Stevens, in 1951 and Ralph Willis in 1952), one-year quarterbacks have not been all that could be hoped for.

Fullback: Captain-elect Don Kornrumpf (186 pounds) is figured to have a fine year, although the position will lack the added threat that Ippolito brought to it last fall as a passer. Behind Kornrumpf will be another letterman senior Brewster Loud, who will find solid competition coming from Ureuhart, the 181-lb. captain of last year's freshman.

Tailback: Two lettermen with a good deal of experience are available in 172-lb. Hugh Scott and 165-lb. Jack Sullivan. The latter was largely sidelined by illness last year, missing much of the football, and all of the baseball season, but belief is that he will be on hand this fall.

Behind this veteran pair comes Roger Holt (185), who played his first football at Princeton Country Day School, while the best of the sophomores are Frank Remley (183) and Greg Riley (171). Frank Bell (206), another sophomore who impressed observers as the possible pick of the freshman tailbacks last fall, is scholastically inept.

On too many counts to permit optimism, the Tigers appear to have sizeable rebuilding problems in 1960. Ability to better last year's 4-5 record and fifth-place tie in the Ivy League will be a task of major proportions.

PLAINSBORO DRAWS EVEN

Ten Sportsmen for First Place. A pair of shutout victories during the past week enabled Plainsboro to deadlock the Sportsmen for first place in the Men's Softball League. One of the triumphs came at the expense of the former league-leaders by a 3-0 margin.

That was credited to Russ Watson Tuesday night as his mates reached Harry Kahny for a pair of runs in the first and another in the fourth. Watson held the losers to four scattered hits and got errorless support.

In a makeup game last Wednesday, Butch Chambers blanked Circle Esso for Plainsboro, 6 to 0, throwing a no-hitter. His mates scored early and often to coast home.

Sannino's A.C. lost ground when it dropped two, the first a 5-1 decision to the Sportsmen as a pair of two-run rallies in the sixth and seventh felt barely short. Kahny was tagged for nine hits but survived.

Sannino's also fell before Leo's Rural Service, the victors pushing two runs across in the top of the final round to prevail, 4-2. Tony Freda's five hitter was good for the victory. In other action last week, Green Cable topped Leo's 8 to 5, largely on the strength of six unearned runs as the losers made four errors. Joe Fisher held Leo's to three hits in adding to his 1960 victory total.

PAC AT HOME THURSDAY
To play South Brunswick. A collar-doveller fair fight with a 1-7 mark as the other teams began the week in a three-way deadlock for first place, the Princeton Athletic Club will meet South Brunswick this Thursday. Game-time on the high school's Harris Field is 6:15.

Montgomery Township handed the younger and less-experienced Princetonians an 8-1 setback on the losers' diamond last week. Dave Wilbur and Joe Zharkin shared the pitching assignment for Montgomery; Jack Mitchell and Bruce Sandvik worked for PAC.

NO. 3 WINS FAIR
In Police Youth League. Albie Toto and Tom Callaghan pitched Engine Co. No. 3 into undisputed first place in the Police Youth League last week. The league leaders (10-2) are closely pursued by runner up Post 76, which split two contests, and currently is a game behind with a 9-3 mark.

Behind the three-hit pitching of Toto, Engine Co. No. 3 shut out Engine Co. No. 1, 8-0. Dave Tesolin, Toto and Callaghan each got two hits to lead the victors' hitting attack. The league leaders then moved into the top spot by lacing second-place Post 76, 16-5, Callaghan getting the win.

In a free-swinging contest, Post 76 stayed in contention by edging Eagles, 11-10. The losers had the tying run on third in the last of the sixth, but a timely double play from the pitcher to catcher to second base erased the threat.

In other games, No. 1 topped the Sportsmen, 6-4, and Eagles swamped the cellar-dwelling Hook & Ladder, 16-6.

WATER CO. RETAINS LEAD

In YMCA Baseball League. The Princeton Water Company retained its lead in the YMCA Junior Baseball League last week, winning a pair of games by scores of 7-4 and 6-1. Bowers which had been occupying the cellar in the four-team league came to life last week, also picking up two victories to move within one point of the front-runners.

In last week's action, the Water Company team defeated Nassau Oil, 7-4, and routed Matthews, 6-1, while Bowers stopped Nassau Oil, 12-10, and trounced Matthews by a 9-1 score. The YMCA circuit will reach its half-way point this week as the four evenly-matched teams battle for the league championship.

The standings:

	W	L	T	Pts
Water Company	4	1	0	20
Bowers	3	1	1	19
Matthews	2	3	0	13
Nassau Oil	1	3	1	9

PARTICIPANTS INCREASE
At YMCA Day Camp. Walter Fullman, chairman of the Princeton YMCA Day Camp, announced this week, as the camp program passed the midpoint in its eight-week season, that additional counselors have been employed to take care of the increased number of campers. Eighty-five youngsters have been taking part in the "Y" program, far more than the originally anticipated capacity number.

The crafts program directed by Mrs. Margaret Stiff, and the camp site development program Highlighted the first half of the camp's season. In the development program, fenced shelters, fire towers, tables, benches and a variety of camp tools have been added. The weekly trip program, swimming instruction and recreational swimming programs, have been popular this year.

George Povilius, camp director, reported that the youngsters raised $26 for World Service in a special carnival program for campers and their parents. The YMCA World Service provides financial help for Y's in 78 countries.

The final two-week period of camp will begin Monday, August 8, and a large registration has been reported despite the fact that this period traditionally has had fewer participants than other periods. Trips during the last period will include the Philadelphia Zoo expedition on Wednesday, August 10, and a trip to Cowbey City on August 17. The camp meets at the Hun School grounds using the Y pool and Raymond Bowers' pool for swimming.

CORRECTION

The police report that the First Aid Unit went to the Princeton Swim Club last week to aid an injured swimmer was incorrect. The ambulance was summoned because Nicholas Pharasies, 21, son of the owner of the pool, had an adverse reaction to an injection of penicillin and required treatment at Princeton Hospital.

News Of The CHURCHES

TOUR WILL LEAVE MONDAY

Plainsboro Group to Go West. A group of four from the First Presbyterian Church of Plainsboro will leave Monday for a 12-day tour of church colleges, theological seminaries and mission stations as far west as Yellowstone National Park. Making the tour will be Karen Jacobson, Alvin Anderson III and Ronald O'Brien, all of the Church's senior high school young people's group, and the Rev. Robert Blackwell.

Contributions to a telephone directory for the Plainsboro area, distributed by the senior high school group, will cover about half the cost of the trip. The participants are contributing the remainder.

Planned stops include Pittsburgh, Waco, Ohio, Chicago and Yellowstone National Park. In Chicago, the foursome will spend two days studying the Presbyterian Institute of Industrial Relations and the Inter-city Church Project. At Yellowstone, they will work with the Rev. Alvin Anderson, pastor of the church at the Plainsboro Presbyterian who is now minister at the Park. At end of the tour, Miss Jacobson will travel to Tulsa, Okla., to attend the Youth Consultation Conference at the University of Tulsa. She will be representing New Jersey at the meeting.

TWO SESSIONS TO BEGIN

Five Vacation Church Schools. Late summer Vacation Church Schools will open Monday at the Kingston Presbyterian Church and the Calvary Baptist Church. Both sessions will run for two weeks, with classes from 9:30 to 11:30 at Calvary Baptist and from 9 to 11:30 at Kingston Presbyterian.

The theme of the Kingston Presbyterian's Bible School will be "Signaling for Christ." It will be open to children from 4 years through 9th grade. Children at the Calvary Baptist who will range from 3-year-olds through junior high school pupils will be studying the general subject of "Churches," with the oldest students taking field trips to buildings in the area.

Mrs. Henry E. Vittum and Mrs. Charles W. Stults are serving as directors of the Kingston Presbyterian's school. Superintendents are Mrs. Marvin Abrams, nursery; Mrs. Theodore Kenny, beginners; Mrs. Donald Wolf, primary; and Mrs. Thea Shuke, junior.

The teaching staff at the Kingston Presbyterian includes Mrs. James Hillebrand, Mrs. John Schuiz, Mrs. Carl Berninghoff, Mrs. Myron Stuller, Mrs. Edmund Harris, Mrs. Harry Fee, Mrs. George Luck, Mrs. Walter Harrison, Mrs. Thea Schmidt, Mrs. Dean Buckingham, Mrs. Harry Hout, Mrs. Ronald Berger, Mrs. Thomas Shaford, Mrs. Charles Clayton, Mrs. Earl Renk, Mrs. Peter Flummeberg, Mrs. James Attenborough, Mrs. Gerald Harrison, Mrs. Vernon Nipper, Mrs. Elice Zapt Jr., Mrs. Maxwell Hopkins, Mrs. John Bowman, Mrs. William H. Perrine, Mrs. Charles Anderson and Miss Nora Hull.

The Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenbush will be in charge of the Vacation Church School at Calvary Baptist. Teachers include Mrs. Paul Harrison, nursery (3-year olds); Mrs. Robert S. Kunkel, kindergarten (4 and 5-year olds); Mrs. Kenneth Dannenbush, primary (grades 1, 2 and 3); Mrs. Olin Mitchell, junior (grades 4, 5 and 6); and Mrs. Nancy Coker, junior high school.

BULLETIN NOTES

John Muir has taken over as assistant minister and director of youth activities at the First Presbyterian Church. A native of East Orange, he will be married September 10 and ordained in his home church September 30. Mr. Muir, who has almost completed his studies at the Union Theological Seminary, is living at 148 Moore Street.

The Kingston Presbyterian Church will hold its Sunday School picnic from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at Camp Delaware on the Blawenburgh-Hopewell Road. A bus will leave the church at 10 a.m.

Dr. Richard H. Dube of 58 Robert Road, a research physicist at RCA Laboratories, will conduct services at Calvary Orthodox Presbyterian Church, Ringoes, during the vacation of the Rev. W. Lee Menon, pastor. Dr. Dube, who is an Elder of Calvary Church and Clerk of the Session, is the author of "A Textbook of Christian Doctrine" and "Photoreactivity of Solids," in addition to many scientific papers and several articles relating science to Christianity.

CORRESPONDENTS

Will compose own letters; must be able to write clearly after obtaining necessary information, and use good judgment in handling problems in the absence of clear-cut precedents. Good typing and better-than-average verbal ability required. Essential to have had previous office experience beyond routine clerical level. Work is fast-moving, extremely varied in content, and offers good opportunity for advancement.

PROOFREADER

College training required; must be familiar with proofreader's symbols and have thorough knowledge of proper English usage. Previous experience highly desirable, but will consider training applicant with high potential for this type of work.

SECRETARIES

Several openings on regular staff, none of which require shorthand, but in which good basic skills in typing and mechanics of English expression together with general office know-how are essential.

These are not trainee positions. Previous secretarial experience is required and preferably same college training.

CLERICAL POSITIONS

We also have some temporary clerical positions in which we need mature women who have had some previous business experience, who can grasp instructions quickly and adapt easily to changes in work procedures.

an entirely NEW conception in apartment dwelling awaits you at Woodbrook House ...

Here is a dramatically different mode in modern apartment living in the comfortably restful atmosphere of suburban splendor. Every room has a beautiful view of the surrounding country side. And a very important feature for any apartment dweller — the proximity of all the conveniences of the city. You are actually only 5 minutes from the heart of Trenton.

Your every comfort is carefully planned at Woodbrook House. Every apartment is fully air conditioned — each room has its own individual unit to give you complete temperature of your own selection. You are provided with all the extra facilities and services you would expect in a truly fine apartment building. Maid service is available on any schedule you may choose and for special occasions. There is a courteous, experienced staff on duty at all times.

Woodbrook House, unexcelled for convenience, provides free bus service to the center of the city and the railroad station. This is just another example of the planned comfort and convenience that is at your service. There are also washer and dryer units for your convenience in the laundry room on the ground floor.

There are 4-room suites with one bedroom and a bath, 12 x 20 foot living room, kitchen and dining area. The kitchens have modern counter-top gas range and waist high oven and modern refrigerator-freezer combinations. The 5-room suites consist of 2 bedrooms and 2 baths plus a 14 x 20 foot living room, kitchen and an 8 x 11 foot-dining area. Every apartment includes full-coat closets. There are also ample storage facilities available for all residents. These elegant apartments start at $135 per month — all utilities are included.

Parking is no problem at Woodbrook House either. There are parking facilities for over 150 cars for the convenience of guests and residents.

Woodbrook House features its own glorious swimming pool and cabanas for exclusive use of residents and their guests. There will be no need to take long hot trips through traffic to get to any swimming facilities. You will have this magnificent 40 x 80 foot swimming pool in your own back yard. Yes, Woodbrook House will be a complete and very pleasant place in which to live.

Come and see the magnificent, fully fireproof, two elevator apartment residence built on 5 acres of beautifully landscaped and terraced grounds. See the beautifully decorated model apartments with furnishings by Herman Spiegel.
